The Melt chandelier is defined by a series of clear cast glass drops, which appear to be in the act of melting. Dripping gracefully from the ceiling with antique brass-plated iron, they convey a sense of motion that is amplified by the fixture's flexible structure. Multiple pieces can be combined for especially dramatic displays at varying heights. Dramatically decorative but also a highly functional option for spaces of all kinds. The position of the glass is fixed, the length of cord cannot be adjusted but the placement of the ceiling caps/mounts can be adjusted to manipulate the width and height of the fixture.
